

IN HONOR OF THE FATHERS

Dear Friend,

Happy Father's Day!

While Father's Day may look a bit different this year, it can still be a special time of paying tribute to the person who helped provide loving care and encouragement throughout your life.

Today we recognize fathers, fatherhood, paternal bonds, and the influence of fathers in society. We want to take a moment and acknowledge all the dads out there who are doing a fantastic job, even in the middle of a pandemic.

In honor of this year's Father's Day, we're sharing stories from fathers who have been given a second chance at fatherhood by going through the Mission's Life Recovery Program.

Meet Kyle, Charles, and Sammy.

"Trying to help guide your children to be a better person than yourself is what being a father means to me. I want to keep them from harm and keep them safe. Most of all, being a father has shown me just how much God loves me as His son."

—Kyle

"What does it mean to be a father? To me, it means that what I do from now on I have to watch because I'm raising two young people and they will be active citizens of this world one day. I want them to know how to act and what to do in this life. I want them to know how they can take care of themselves and not be dependent on anyone but God. I want that for all my children."

—Charles

"Being a father means loving your kids, cherishing every moment with them, embracing every possibility they have, and loving every memory."

—Sammy

Happy Father's Day to all the dads out there, and thank you for being a supporter of Nashville Rescue Mission. Your support helps change lives!

Give Dads Like These A Second Chance

Share Tweet Forward